2021-22 RANSOM EVERGLADES COMMUNITY HEALTH COMMITMENT

We withstood the challenges of COVID-19 in 2020-21 because all of us – students, faculty, staff and parents – made a commitment to safe practices and to one another. We need the same commitment in 2021-22. We require that all students, faculty, staff and one parent per family read and sign this Community Health Commitment, which affirms the need to follow all Ransom Everglades procedures and policies related to COVID-19. Our community health expectations are consistent with federal and state public health guidelines. This document serves to reinforce the individual and collective efforts required to maintain and sustain a healthy community during the pandemic. It is our expectation that everyone who signs this document will be committed to doing all that it takes to keep our community healthy.

By signing this document, you agree to keep up with and follow our school’s health requirements and protocols, which will be posted on the Ransom Everglades website and updated as circumstances warrant. You also agree to abide by any additional or special protocols Ransom Everglades may implement for particular campus events or activities. We will actively enforce our health and safety rules on our campuses, and infractions will result in disciplinary action that could include separation from the community.

When we are not on campus, we must continue to uphold the highest standards of community health, and we also must endeavor to treat each other with respect and empathy. If you have a concern related to the compliance of COVID-19 guidelines, you should contact the appropriate campus head, either Interim Head of the Middle School Karen Thompson or Head of the Upper School Patricia C.A. Sasser.

I have read and understood the Community Health Commitment. By signing this document, I agree that I will comply with Ransom Everglades rules and protective measures.
